Overview

Daniel Toledano KC is the Joint Head of Chambers of One Essex Court and a leading silk at the Commercial Bar. He is regularly instructed in large-scale, multi-party litigation and arbitration across a broad spectrum of business and commerce. Daniel has expertise in banking and finance, civil fraud, company and insolvency, energy, group litigation and professional negligence matters. He is also frequently instructed in cases involving foreign law and questions of jurisdiction and conflict of laws.

The leading directories have for many years singled Daniel out as an outstanding choice in a wide range of practice areas. As well as commercial dispute resolution, international commercial arbitration, banking, energy and civil fraud, he has also been recognised for his sports law work. Chambers UK shortlisted Daniel for Commercial Litigation Silk of the Year in 2022, and Legal 500 shortlisted him for Banking and Finance Silk of the Year in 2023.

Daniel's recent work has included the following leading cases:

Município de Mariana v BHP - the largest ever group action before the English courts concerning environmental damage in Brazil.

The Diesel Emissions Litigation - acting for a major motor manufacturer in response to claims involving over 1 million diesel vehicle owners.

General Dynamics v Libya - in a UK Supreme Court appeal dealing with service in the context of state immunity.

Manoukian v Soc Gen and Bank Audi - a groundbreaking dispute leading to the first full merits judgment in any jurisdiction on the international transfer rights of banking customers under Lebanese law.

Hashwah v Qatar National Bank – an important case dealing with the principles on the scope of sovereign conduct, the interaction between State immunity and other obligations under international law, and the application of the exception to State immunity for commercial transactions.

Several major international commercial arbitrations, relating to the Panama Canal; a shipbuilding contract; and a power station in Jordan.
